

ExBoyfriend

clothing that starts conversations™

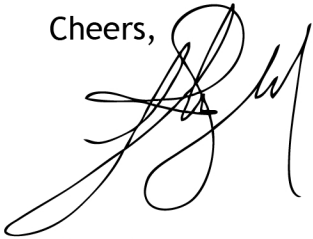

Ex-Boyfriend began in 2009 primarily as a graphic clothing label featuring the illustrations and designs of owner/artist Matt Snow. Since then, Ex-Boyfriend has expanded from simply “another graphic t-shirt” site into an internationally recognized brand, carried in stores across the U.S. and overseas, and featuring so much more than just tees – hooded sweatshirts, belts, wallets, totes & messenger bags, and an ever-growing selection of housewares.

Ex-Boyfriend designs have been featured on numerous art, design, fashion, and pop culture sites, as well as many television shows, from ABC's Modern Family, Fox's Raising Hope, Nicklodeon's Victorious, and Comedy Central's The Daily Show with Jon Stewart and Tosh.0.

Snow and his wife Meredith began Ex-Boyfriend as an alternative to the meme-centric brands that jump on new trends and exploit them before moving on to the next hot thing. The goal behind every design is to say something clever and/or funny, but also to pair this commentary with stunning, original design & illustration work that can't help but become a conversation piece in any setting.

Whether you need a new look for your wardrobe, home, or office, one thing's for sure: if it came from Ex-Boyfriend, it's going to start people talking.

Cheers,

Matt Snow
